

NEW LINK FOR PRIDHAM CUT-OFF

New link for the proposed Pridham cut-off is being installed by provincial government work crews. Here a pile-driver crew from the department of highways is shown doing preliminary work on a bridge in the Pridham district. The wooden structure will connect the existing portions of the new road with the Barlee Stretch. On completion the through road will shorten the present route north from the city by several miles.

Lumber Groups Ask Gov't To Revise Trucking Fees

VICTORIA (CP)—Two wood industry organizations petitioned the British Columbia cabinet today for revisions in the new regulations which load a larger share of the costs of highway usage on logging trucks.

Licences, overload fees and fuel taxes have all been increased following a royal commission report on road user taxes submitted in 1959.

British Columbia Loggers' Association, which submitted a brief on the subject last November, wrote to cabinet today in support of a brief being put forward by Interior Lumbermen's Association.

Editor Plans Vigilantes To Catch Swastika-Painters

VANCOUVER (CP)—A leader of the German-speaking community here said he will organize a vigilante committee today to catch a person participating in the recent outbreak of swastika-painting in Vancouver.

Bright red swastikas were painted on a CCF club building in the city's west end and on the walls of the Province newspaper pressrooms.

Others, painted in a vivid green, were found on homes and garages in south Vancouver.

Dr. B. W. Hoeter, editor of the German-language weekly Der Nordwestern, said the German community is taking the outbreak seriously.

Van Doren Quits Grand Jury Panel

NEW YORK (AP)—Charles Van Doren, who admittedly lied in denying taking part in a rigged television quiz show, was sworn in Wednesday as a member of a federal grand jury. But six hours later he was excused at his own request.

U.S. attorney S. Hazard Gillespie told reporters: "Mr. Van Doren came in to see me and said that while he regarded himself qualified to serve as a juror, he wished to be excused in view of the publicity which resulted after it was publicly disclosed he had been selected as a member of a grand jury."

Gen. Macklin Criticizes Professors

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—Major Gen. W. H. S. Macklin, former adjutant-general of the Canadian Army, Wednesday criticized Canadian university professors and students who advocate suspension of nuclear tests.

He said it was "pathetic to see large numbers of professors and students of leading Canadian universities signing petitions to plead the banning of nuclear tests and nuclear bombs, and even marching to Ottawa to parade their slogans on Parliament Hill."

Ghana Would Give Up Sovereignty For Union

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—Kwame Nkrumah, prime minister of Ghana, said today Ghana was prepared to surrender her sovereignty completely to fulfill the concept of a union of African states.

Nkrumah was addressing a press conference of reporters covering the visit of Prime Minister Macmillan to Ghana.

He was asked how much sovereignty he thought African states which had just emerged from colonial rule would be willing to surrender for African unity.

He answered: "I don't know. But Ghana, according to our program, is prepared to sacrifice its sovereignty completely to this union."

TO MEASURE OUTER SPACE GASES

Sensitive Instrument Developed By Canada Will Be Shot Aloft

OTTAWA (CP)—A sensitive Canadian instrument—the only one of its kind in the Western world—will be shot aloft in an American earth satellite late this year or early in 1961 to measure the minute density of gases in outer space.

Developed by the radio and electrical engineering division of the National Research Council, it will give scientists their first opportunity to determine accurately the extent of the vacuum outside the earth's atmosphere.

Known as a cold-cathode gauge, the instrument in laboratory experiments has successfully measured densities or pressures believed to exist on the surface of the moon. These densities throughout outer space amount to almost a complete vacuum.

MAKE TOUGHER MODEL

Paul A. Redhead, head of the NRC group which developed the gauge, said in an interview that the instrument now is being re-engineered in the United States to withstand the shock and vibration of the satellite's launching.

This was not a difficult engineering job.

Under present plans, he said, three gauges will be placed aboard a satellite to be launched by the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration late this year or early next year.

The Canadian instrument was selected after careful study by the American space agency. Mr. Redhead said that as far as he was aware there were no other instruments of a similar design capable of such fine measurement.

Other Canadian instruments built by ORB scientists will be placed aboard an American satellite scheduled for launch in California in 1961. The instruments will gather information on the electrically charged ionospheric belt above the earth's surface and relay it back to Canadian receiving stations.

U.S. Ever Ready For Peace Talks

Canada May Be Member Of New Economic Forum

WASHINGTON (CP)—The United States is hopeful a new economic forum may spring up in Western Europe with both the U.S. and Canada eventually becoming full members.

This forum would provide a means of continual consultation to prevent clashes between France, West Germany and other members of the six-country Common Market and the European Free Trade Association, or "Outer Seven", which includes Britain, Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

U.S. diplomats said they would like to see this forum developed by simplifying the existing 17-country Organization for European Economic Co-operation, of which Canada and the U.S. are associate members.

CLOSER TIES?

Canada's Finance Minister Donald Fleming told a press conference Wednesday his country will remain an associate member if the O.E.E.C. carries on "as usual." His remark left open the possibility that Canada might be willing to become a full member in some revised organization.

The O.E.E.C. was set up 11 years ago to channel Marshall aid funds into war-devastated Europe. It continued as a co-ordinating body but its future is dimmed by the emergence of the two rival European trade blocs.

Representatives of the two blocs have agreed to meet with Canada and the U.S. at Paris

Ike Pledges His All To "Tasks At Hand"

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—President Eisenhower declared in the state of the union message to Congress today that the United States is always ready to participate with the Soviet Union in any serious discussion that might lead to peace with justice.

He said that in his final year of office he is ready to devote his full energies to the tasks at hand, "whether these involve travel for promoting greater world understanding, negotiations to reduce international discord, or constant discussions and communications which the Congressships between the Soviet Union and the free world."

The president said that "recent Soviet de portment and pronouncements suggest the possible opening of a somewhat less strained period in the relationships between the Soviet Union and the free world."

"If these pronouncements be genuine, there is brighter hope of diminishing the intensity of past rivalry and eventually of substituting persuasion for coercion. "Whether this is to become an era of lasting promise remains to be tested by actions."

LESS TENSION

Eisenhower said that in the last year the Soviet Union had expressed an interest in measures to reduce the "common peril of war."

"While neither we nor any other free world nation can permit ourselves to be misled by pleasant promises until they are tested by performance, yet we approach this apparently new opportunity with the utmost seriousness."

"We must strive to break the calamitous cycle of frustrations and crises which, if unchecked, could spiral into nuclear disaster: the ultimate insanity."

Eisenhower announced for the first time that the Intercontinental Ballistic Missile, the Atlas, in 14 recent test launchings at ranges of more than 5,000 miles had been striking on an average within two miles of the target.

"This is less than the length of a jet runway—well within the circle of total destruction."

NO SURPRISES

Speaking to a joint session of the Senate and the House of Representatives, the president produced no real surprises in the field of proposed legislation.

Among other things, he asked for continued foreign aid to fight communism; enactment of the civil rights program that he asked for last year—particularly with respect to protecting the rights of Negroes to vote; new farm laws to replace "an outmoded system which has failed to protect farm income"; and a program to help finance school construction.

SPACE COSTS DOUBLED

He said he would present to the Congress for the 1961 fiscal year beginning next July 1 a balanced budget. Defense expenditures would continue at the record peace-time levels of the last few years and space expenditures would be practically doubled.

He estimated that for the present fiscal year ending June 30 next, there would be a favorable balance in the budget of about $200,000,000.

Eisenhower said all industrialized nations of the non-Communist world must be induced to work together in a new co-operative endeavor "to help lift the scourge of poverty from less fortunate nations."

The President expressed the hope that an avenue towards "the true foundation of peace" might be found through the reopening Jan. 12 in Geneva of negotiations among U.S., British and Soviet representatives on a controlled nuclear test ban.

DISARMAMENT POSSIBLE

Still another avenue might be found in the field of disarmament. One obvious road on which to make a useful start was in the widening of communications between the West and the Soviet Union.

"The United States is always ready to participate with the Soviet Union in serious discussion of these or any other subjects that may lead to peace with justice."

"Certainly it is not necessary to repeat that the United States has no intention of interfering in the internal affairs of any nation; likewise we reject any attempt to impose its system on us or on other peoples by force of subversion."

NAGGING DISORDERS

The president said this year promises to be the most prosperous year in United States history, "yet we continue to be afflicted by nagging disorders."

Among current problems, requiring solution are the continuing threat of inflation, the denial of equal protection of law to some citizens, the "perilous refusal" to come to grips with the farming problem, and the need to protect the public interest in industrial disputes.

Young Vernon Dancer Gets Medal Despite Knee Injury

By ART BURNELL
(Courier Staff Writer)

VERNON — A possible future prima ballerina, 14-year-old Elaine Glens of Vernon who is now studying at the Grandison Ballet College in England, fell and injured her knee during a practice session, her mother Mrs. John Glens told The Courier today.

The bad sprain prevented her by two marks from receiving an honor mark in her class. However, despite her painful injury she still received a bronze medal for ballroom dancing.

The dancer will be coming home in July for the summer holidays.

Elaine, who hopes to one day be a member of the famous Sadlers Wells ballet, in a letter home said the knee injury had prevented her from dancing in London's Albert Hall last November.

Armstrong Hopes To Hold Line On Taxes

ARMSTRONG (Staff) — Armstrong's council anticipates an increase of from $4,000 to $5,000 in the 1960 school budget.

However, the present mill rate can be held if the increase does not exceed these figures, Mayor Jack Potchecary told the incoming council.

The 1960 provisional budget, previously approved by the 1959 council, is being studied. It will not be brought in until the latter part of March when the school budget is known.

LONG DISCUSSION

Lengthy discussion concerned a proposed resolution which was submitted to the previous council by Ald. S. R. Heal.

This resolution proposed to govern relations between the Armstrong city council and the council of the municipality of Spallumcheen and the Interior Provincial Exhibition Association.

Item 1 of the resolution was discarded. The majority felt council has no jurisdiction to legally ask for discharge of the present building committee. It was pointed out that work is not finished since the grandstand is yet to be built.

Item 2 of the proposed resolution indicated that council will "appoint two directors each to the fair grounds directorate, the directorate so appointed to co-operate with the regularly elected directors for the efficient operation of the fair."

Ald. Moore argued that the thought behind the resolution was good, but the manner in which it was presented intimidated the fair board had not been running the operation as it should. He said he hoped this was not the intention of the resolution, and suggested a meeting with the fair board directorate to try to iron out some of these problems.

Ald. W. L. Smith suggested that items 3 and 4 be revised and adopted, whereupon Ald. Heal withdrew the resolution, advising council of his intention to present a new draft of the resolution at the next meeting, and incorporating the stipulation that a meeting of both councils and the fair board be called for further discussion.

MEETING OF THANKS

Mayor Potchecary gave a vote of thanks to retiring officers Gordon Gray and Earl Dixon.

"I certainly enjoyed my stay on council and hope 1960 will prove a successful year," Mr. Gray replied. Mr. Dixon stated he also had enjoyed his term of office.

Police Magistrate G. S. Denroche officiated for the swearing in of Mayor Potchecary, Aldermen James Nelson and W. G. Parker and school trustee Dr. R. Sylvester. Ald. Smith was sworn in that afternoon.

"I hope meetings can be carried on without too much cross-talking," commented the mayor.

DATES SET

Regular council meeting dates were set for the second and fourth Monday nights in each month.

Mayor Potchecary announced the appointment of parks commissioners A. E. Warner for a two year term and Mrs. A. F. Henley for a term of one year.

Also appointed was a court of revision consisting of Aldermen L. Smith, and J. E. Jamieson and Mayor Potchecary.

A motion was passed stating that tenders will be called for garbage collection, with a separate tender including a weekly collection during the period June 15 to Sept. 15.

Council agreed to order 500 pounds of calcium chloride to be used to reduce ice on city streets.

UBC Junior Ski Club Plans Excursion To Silver Star

VERNON (Staff) — Vernon's Silver Star Mountain will play host to about 25 members of the University of British Columbia Junior Ski Club later on this month.

Mrs. Sandra Fraser, chief instructor of the UBC team, and her husband visited Silver Star this week and have made arrangements for an open ski meet. Members of her club will come to Vernon to participate in what is hoped will be an annual event.

Two more special ski trains will be run by the railways from Vancouver to Vernon. One will be run next month and another in March.

beginners' tow rope is progressing rapidly and it is hoped to have it completed for the coming weekend. The special tow line for beginners runs at a slow speed so novices will not become nervous and be able to eventually adjust themselves to the much faster tow and Poma lift. The new lift is being built on shallow slopes to also give encouragement to beginners in "running the slopes."

CITY DRIVER CHARGED IN ACCIDENT

Charges of failing to yield the right-of-way have been laid by RCMP against Joseph Leskosek, driver of the city-owned truck above. The three-ton vehicle collided with an auto driven by A. C. Blower of Kelowna near the Richter-Corona intersection Wednesday.

No one was injured in the mishap, although severe damage was sustained by the Blower vehicle. (Courier staff photo).

RCMP WARNING

Dark Is Best For This Work

Thieves are not afraid of the dark. In view of the incidence of breaking and entering in the city and district, police have advised merchants to keep their premises well-lighted.

Several firms in the city do not have a night light burning in their offices, and this is "asking for trouble," say RCMP officers. They advise a lighted office at all times, particularly near safes and strong boxes. These should also be kept as much in the open as possible, in the rear of the store or office.

Rear doors, too, should receive special attention from proprietors. Glass doors in an alley or dark entrance are easy marks for even the most inexperienced

"B and E artist." Doors should be of solid construction, if possible barred or heavily reinforced.

Police also discourage any would-be-heroes from attempting to apprehend thieves if they are discovered.

"The best thing to do," said an officer, "is to back quietly away and call the police."

"Then we have a chance to catch them red-handed." Several culprits have been captured in this way, the most recent being at Benny's Service on the Vernon Road.

With radio-equipped patrol cars constantly cruising the city, the police dispatcher is able to have a constable on the scene in a matter of minutes.

THIEVES NET $10 AS BODY SHOP HIT

Thieves struck again in the city overnight.

About $10 in cash was taken from the premises of Adanac Auto Body, 259 Lawrence Ave.

The thieves gained entry to the rear of the building by lifting a sliding door from its track.

No other damage was done to the shop or offices.

The breaking - and - entering was discovered shortly after 8 a.m. today by Roger Sasseville, the manager of the shop.

ASSESSMENT UP

PENTICTON (CP)—New construction and alterations are mainly responsible for a $4,000,000 increase in Penticton's assessment roll, city assessor S. H. Cornock told the incoming council. The roll totals $33,373,365, up 4.1 per cent.

City Coffers Swell Thanks To Drivers Who Take Chances

Errant motorists contributed $8,212 to the city's coffers due to minor infractions in 1959.

This figure was contained in a year-end report by special traffic officer L. A. N. Potterton. A total of $619 was paid in fines in the month of December.

Mr. Potterton also reported the city had seen the last of the schoolboy patrols that formerly were stationed at the intersection of Harvey and Richter.

The patrol system was disbanded with the installation of a traffic light at the intersection.

The traffic situation in that area was said to be "very good" by the special officer.

ART TREASURE

A slender - legged table made 200 years ago by Louis XV's cabinetmaker in Paris sold for about $102,000 in London in 1959.

Red, East Delicious Price Rise Obtained

A further price rise has been obtained by B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. for Eastern Delicious and Red Delicious apples.

The increase was due to a "diminishing supply", of this fruit available to eastern United States markets.

Last week more than 108,000 boxes went forward from the sales agency, with the majority — 44 per cent — to western Canadian markets.

Buyers took 28 per cent, with 17 per cent shipped to the U.S. The remainder went to eastern Canadian and offshore markets. At the year end, a total of 2,221,000 boxes had been sold on the fresh market.

Of this figure, 56 per cent had been received in western Canada, with 18 per cent shipped to the U.S. Great Britain followed with 16 per cent of the total purchases. Eastern Canadian points and offshore markets took the remainder.

With the year-end figures, the McIntosh crop is shown to be 86 per cent sold. The remaining stock is made up of packed stock on hand—about 9,600 boxes. This fruit consists of that diverted to Sun-Rype Products Ltd. for processing and some in controlled-atmosphere storage.

Red Delicious varieties have been 63 per cent shipped to the fresh market, and regular Delicious shipments are now 60 per cent of the crop.

The unsold stocks of Red Delicious are not heavy, say Tree Fruits officials. Most of them are made up of the smaller sizes.

U.K. HIGH

The United Kingdom has taken more than half the total Newmarket movement to date. So far, 100,000 boxes of this variety have been shipped—about 30 per cent of the crop.

Singapore is fast becoming a top market for the apple crop, as shown by the fact that a large portion, 25 per cent of the remaining Newmarkets, was shipped to that area. Western Canada took the rest.

Sales of extra fancy Winesaps have improved this week, say agency spokesmen, although there has been "very little" demand for Winesaps.

Salvation Army Christmas Fund Said Biggest Yet

Lieut. B. Dumurton of the Salvation Army says holiday donations to the "Christmas Kettle" have been the biggest ever in Kelowna.

He said total funds collected amounted to $2,418.92 which is $115 more than the previous year. All donations were spent on needy families in Kelowna.

Nearly 100 food hampers were distributed to less fortunate families in this area during the Christmas period.

In addition to this, there was a large number of toys given to families in Kelowna district. The toys came from the Kelowna Volunteer Fire Brigade's toy shop. Lieut. Dumurton has extended his "sincere gratitude" to Kelowna residents who donated to the "Christmas Kettle."

Kelowna Man Heads BCDs; Replaces Lt.-Col. Clarke

Alan Moss of Kelowna, has been promoted from the rank of Major, second in command, to Lieutenant-Colonel in the British Columbia Dragoons.

Lt.-Col. Moss succeeds Lt.-Col. H. K. Clarke, C.D., of Vernon, who has transferred to Supplementary Reserve.

The new commanding officer began his service with the Warwickshire Home Guard in England and from there joined the British Army as a gunner in the Royal Artillery.

He has also seen service in India with the eighth Sikh Rifles.

In 1952 he joined the BCDs as regimental training officer. He also attended a senior officers refresher course at Camp Borden, Ont. and the militia staff course at the Canadian Army Staff College Kingston, Ont.

Lt.-Col. Moss will be closer to his work in the near future, as the regimental headquarters is in the process of being moved from Vernon to Kelowna.

The regiment recruited a large number of young men during a

On completion of this training they will be instructed in the finer points of the BCDs new role of national survival units in case of emergency.

Glenmore Area Thieves At Work

GLENMORE — Petty thieves have been at work in this district recently.

Money has been stolen from milk bottles on several occasions, and one resident of North Highland Drive had his gasoline tank drained overnight.

MISTAKE NOTE

A Daily Courier news story last week carried a statement that councillor Victor Haddad was beginning his third term on the municipal council here. He has in fact, served continuously in a councillor's post since 1953, and the story should have read "commencing his fourth consecutive term."

Company Admits Labor Malpractice

The International Woodworkers of America CLC announced today in Vancouver 18 men fired by Wilder Lumber Company Ltd. of Radium, B.C., for joining the union are to be re-instated.

IWA secretary George Mitchell said company representatives admitted at a labor relations board hearing the men were fired for joining the union.

He said the company agreed at the hearing to re-hire the employees immediately.

A company spokesman said in an interview from Radium the men were told prior to the hearing their jobs were available and that there would be no victimization if they returned to work. Dismissal of an employee for joining a union is contrary to the Labor Relations Act.

Instant Coffee

Six weeks ago, we introduced new Nabob Instant Coffee. It is a completely different kind of coffee... the first instant to give you deep, rich flavor and aroma at no extra cost. And the response to new Nabob Instant is tremendous. Now, with so many people - with varied tastes - using new Nabob Instant, we've been able to make some interesting observations based on taste tests. New Nabob Instant is so much more full bodied, that when you use the same amount per cup as you did with weaker, old-fashioned instants, you may get a stronger cup of coffee than you want. Naturally, it's all a matter of personal taste. Some people like their coffee extra strong and hearty. But because new Nabob Instant is so rich, we'd just like to point out that you may want to make a slight adjustment in your measuring... in-order to enjoy this delicious coffee to the full.

Highway Fatality Figures Are Bound To Increase

This newspaper has commented before about holiday weekend accident statistics. It believes they serve little, if any, good purpose. It believes they are over publicized, over "glamorized".

How sharply do holiday weekend fatalities increase over the same period of an ordinary weekend? And how much greater in number are holiday fatalities than those of any normal weekend in proportion to the increased number of cars on the highways?

Statistics saying that such a number of people met death on the highways during a certain weekend mean nothing at all, mean nothing at all alone, that is. To say that more died in that certain weekend than in the comparable period a year previous not only means nothing but is unfair to all the drivers on the highway during that weekend; it infers they were less careful.

These cold statistics mean nothing because there are many factors involved and these factors may differ from year to year. This year, for instance, with Christmas and New Year's Day both on Fridays, there may have been a vastly greater number of cars on the road than there were a year ago. Then, too—and very important—what were the road conditions, the country-wide road conditions, in the two years? Were they generally better in one year than in the other? Or worse?

While, of course, it is desirable to take what measures we may to save even a single life, if we are realistic at all, we must recognize that highway fatality figures are bound to increase. From experts we learn that vehicle miles travelled will increase by fifty per cent by 1970. Highway improvement cannot possibly keep pace with expanding travel needs. Population concentration will increase; three-quarters of the total population will be urban or near urban by that time.

In Canada 400,000 youths per year will come to driving age. There will be more senior citizens alive and driving. There will be more leisure time, more freeways, more night driving, more boats will be transported on the highways, more vehicle changes. New methods of traffic control and traffic direction will be introduced.

These things all add up to more traffic on the highways and a tremendous increase in accident potential. Highway fatality figures which now seem deplorable a few years hence will appear to be very moderate indeed.

The Pope And The Newspapers

The pronouncements of Pope John XXIII are received with attention and respect throughout the free world, not only among the members of his own church but among those of other religions. One reason for this is the liberal and generous spirit he has displayed since his accession, and the appreciation he has shown of the viewpoint of other groups. Yet we find ourselves compelled to disagree with his recent speech to the Union of Catholic Jurists in Rome, in which he declared that "some necessary limitations must be placed upon the freedom of the press."

His Holiness recommended this drastic step as a means of putting a check "upon morbidity in what is said and implied, upon the magnifying of sensational and unlawful things, upon the temptation of profit, upon lack of consideration, and recklessness, which violently tear away the innocence of children and youths." He went on:

It is not love of knowledge, culture or truth that guides some pens, but the unhealthy fire of certain passions; it is the immoderate yearning for notoriety and profit that passes over the irrepressible appeals of conscience.

No one can say that this indictment is overdrawn. There exists in all Western countries a press which specializes in sensational and often pornographic stories, and which has few restraints of shame or decency. Yet the question remains whether censorship is the proper remedy, and whether it may not create greater evils than those it attempts to cure.

Censorship of the press has rarely been attempted in peacetime in English-speaking countries during the present century, but we have seen numerous attempts to censor books and magazines, and the results suggest that it is not an effective means of keeping objectionable material out of the hands of the public. Lawmakers and judges have never been able to agree on a definition of obscenity which would cover commercial pornography while exempting works of recognized artistic merit. Even when sensible rules are drawn up their enforcement generally depends on individual policemen, customs inspectors and magistrates who may, through prejudice or want of knowledge, reduce them to absurdity. Often the attempt to suppress a book only stimulates interest in it; the phrase "banned in Boston" has passed into a proverb.

When an attempt is made to censor newspapers, a further and very important difficulty arises. It is an essential requirement of democracy that the citizens should know—or at least have the opportunity to know—what is happening in the world. The basic function of newspapers is to supply that information. Can government officials safely be given the power to determine what news the voters may read?

One may, for example, deplore the sensational manner in which certain newspapers present reports of murders, organized vice and the like. Yet the citizens of a community have a right to know that such things are happening, and to be told what the authorities are doing about them. Attempts to censor such stories in the name of morality might cloak a desire to shield negligent or corrupt officials, or even to protect criminals. Censorship on moral grounds can easily slide into political censorship.

Political censorship, indeed, has been one of the greatest evils of the Twentieth Century, and a necessary cover for some of its worst horrors. Thanks to effective news control, for example, the majority of the German people were kept in ignorance of the Nazi extermination camps until the end of the war. A similar system concealed from the Russian people the full extent of Stalin's cruelties and follies; they heard about them only after the tyrant was dead.

With these terrible examples before them, the peoples of the democracies must be very wary of any proposal to give governments the power to interfere with the gathering and publication of news, however high the motives may be at the beginning.

There is another, perhaps more basic consideration. The practices the Pope justly deplores may be more a symptom than a cause of moral decadence. It is significant that throughout the supposedly educated and Christianized Western World, the most popular newspapers, in terms of circulation, are precisely the ones which are most sensational and salacious. This suggests that rather than creating a depraved appetite they cater to one already formed. Suppressing or controlling them will not eliminate this appetite, which will just seek other outlets.

Improvement, we suspect, cannot come through the efforts of censors. It can only be brought about by a general elevation of public taste, in which parents, the church, the schools and the professional groups must share. This is bound to be a long, slow process, but there is no real shortcut. In the long run, the only censorship that is effective with a newspaper is that of its readers.

Immigrants From U.K. Form Half Of Town's Population

By RUSSELL ELMAN

ELIZABETH, Australia (CP)—The state of South Australia is making a bold bid to attract British settlers and British capital to develop the country's first planned satellite town.

Five years ago open farmland and a blueprint vision, Elizabeth today is Australia's fastest-growing township, about 17 miles from Adelaide, the state capital.

Its low-cost homes, trim gardens and wide streets, self-contained community shopping centres and new factories are the focus of country-wide admiration.

NOVEL EXPERIMENT

But Elizabeth is also hitting the spotlight as a novel social experiment. For more than 40 per cent of its 15,000 inhabitants are newly-arrived immigrants from the United Kingdom.

Probably nowhere else in Australia has such a large block of newcomers been settled together. How they succeed in adapting to Australian conditions and way of life is being watched closely by sociologists and housing authorities.

"We frankly admit we are making a deliberate and determined attempt to attract British immigrants to Elizabeth," said Alex Ramsay, general manager of the South Australian Housing Trust. "We are just as enthusiastic to win British capital to go with British labor."

The Housing Trust has a publicity and sales office in London, where intending settlers can select their house. When they step off the boat in Australia, they can move straight into their new home without even one night in a hotel.

A big selling point is the financing. A three-bedroom brick and stone house averages around $7,700 and can be purchased on easy terms. And under Australia's assisted passage scheme, nominated migrants pay only $22 for the long trip from Britain.

SOME GRUMBLES

The majority are reported settling in well, but they still have their grumbles, some of which apply equally to "old" Australians.

Women, used to high-density city dwelling, say they find it difficult to adjust to self-contained houses in spacious gardens with no neighbor to chat to over the fence. Men occasionally beef that the town's only pub closes at six o'clock, and it's a long way off.

There is also an economic complaint that it's costly to commute to work by the 34-mile round trip to Adelaide each day, 60,000,

Ramsay said authorities hope these are only growing pains. More industries were being built locally, including a major car assembly plant, and would provide work closer to home.

Elizabeth was originally conceived to prevent aimless, indiscriminate expansion of metropolitan Adelaide, which has a population of 500,000. It was decided to build a new town from scratch 17 miles north of the city.

The town received its name following the Royal Visit to Australia in 1954. Its main boulevard is called Philip Highway.

COSTLY PROJECT

The Housing Trust, which bought 6,000 acres from farmers for the townsite, has assumed responsibility for planning, drainage, streets, selling plots and building houses for sale or rental.

So far basic development has cost $50,000,000 and may eventually exceed $70,000,000, not including capital investment by industrial and commercial concerns.

The first family moved in during November 1955, and by the end of 1959 nearly 4,000 houses of 48 different designs had been completed. By 1960 the town is expected to have a population of 15,000.

Power Shift Taking Place Within Atlantic Alliance

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PARIS (CP)—A power shift is taking place within the Atlantic alliance. France and Western Germany are gaining ground, largely at Britain's expense.

A working partnership between Teutonic vitality and Gallic grandeur, receiving outward expression in the remarkable friendship of President de Gaulle and Chancellor Adenauer, is imposing a made-in-Europe stamp on recent NATO decisions.

German economic strength—growing apace with private investment from the United States—combines with the majestic personality of Gen. de Gaulle to exert a powerful influence on Western councils.

To mention two examples, the Franco-German understanding has enabled de Gaulle to resist an early summit and Adenauer to stave off the nightmare of military disengagement in Europe. In both cases, the concessions came mainly from Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan.

To the Western Big Three of the United States, Britain and France, the name of Germany is often added. And those who dislike the term "Big Four" acknowledge that it should be, at least, something like the "Big Three and Nine-tenths."

CHANGED RELATIONSHIP

The power shift to the Continent does not dismay NATO observers. They regard it as part of a natural process, involving the rapid convalescence of two war-ravaged countries.

"We want to see a strong Europe," one NATO authority said.

As a result of these influences, more and more factories and offices, have formed the habit of closing for holidays during this period. Companies which tried to keep open found difficulty in retaining staff and even then they discovered that their suppliers or customers were closed.

Stock exchanges close two days before Christmas and do not reopen until mid-January. Lawyers and accountants are also closed. Banks close for five days, reopen for only two days between Christmas and New Year's, and then close again for five more days.

Factories and warehouses are shut tight. Some do not get back into full gear until toward the end of January.

Newspapers are less than half their normal size. Services of a more rational basis, remained comparatively unaffected. Today the two countries are booming, and the accelerating rhythm of developments within the six-nation Common Market is likely to accentuate present trends.

Britain, by contrast, has yet to find its place in the new Europe. Political power flows from economic strength. In the period of "detente diplomacy" about to unfold in Paris, the temporary accord between the old rivals of Europe may help to offset the familiar Anglo-American pre-eminence in NATO.

Shutdown Worries N.Z. Businessmen

By J.C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND (CP)—Business in New Zealand has come almost to a halt. The country's annual holiday shutdown is perhaps the most complete anywhere.

New Zealand was one of the pioneers in introducing paid annual holidays. So the idea has had longer to become a national institution. A full three-week holiday is general. For some people, allowing for weekends, the break is at least 3½ weeks.

Added to that, the midsummer school vacation coincides with the Christmas and New Year periods, in both of which long weekend breaks are taken in any case by shops and offices.

As a result of these influences, more and more factories and offices, have formed the habit of closing for holidays during this period. Companies which tried to keep open found difficulty in retaining staff and even then they discovered that their suppliers or customers were closed.

Stock exchanges close two days before Christmas and do not reopen until mid-January. Lawyers and accountants are also closed. Banks close for five days, reopen for only two days between Christmas and New Year's, and then close again for five more days.

Factories and warehouses are shut tight. Some do not get back into full gear until toward the end of January.

Newspapers are less than half their normal size. Services of a more rational basis, most kinds are non-existent because builders, plumbers, radio maintenance shops, and all other such regular operations are on holiday like everyone else.

SLIGHT INCONVENIENCE

All stores close for at least four days at Christmas and again at New Year, and some do not find it worth while opening in between. Mail deliveries are suspended for long intervals.

A large part of the population feels little inconvenience because the towns are all but deserted. The proportion of people owning seaside or lakeside cottages or cabins in addition to a town home is believed to be higher in New Zealand than almost anywhere else.

Those who do not own or hire an out-of-town cottage usually shut to tented motor-camps, which spread over acres of land at all the popular beaches.

In these simple outdoor surroundings, where their wants are few and easily obtained, many New Zealanders are scarcely aware that the business of the country has almost stopped.

More and more businessmen, however, are showing concern. New Zealand is gradually becoming more industrialized and the complete loss of three weeks' production out of every 52, without taking account of possible stoppages from other causes, makes it difficult for New Zealand industries to compete with foreign plants which operate on a more rational basis.

JEW-BAITING SHOWS

Democracy Shaky In West Germany

By HERB ALTSCHULL

BONN (AP)—The current wave of anti-semitic incidents emphasizes the shakiness of democracy in West Germany.

Most of the men arrested in Germany so far in connection with the painting of swastikas and anti-Jewish slogans in public places are under 26, too young to have been Nazis in the Hitler era.

Yet these youths mouth Nazi slogans and keep their eyes on Jewish graveyards in nothing new in post-war Germany.

What is new is the response to a single incident, the swabbing of a swastika on the newly decorated

Cologne synagogue Christmas Eve and the daubing in black paint of the words "Juden raus"—"Jews get out."

STARTLING REACTION

Newspapers picked up the story and spread it in Germany and abroad. Like a forest fire, swastikas and anti-Jewish phrases spread across West Germany and around the world.

Many of the swastikas have been crudely drawn and seem to be the work of juvenile delinquents.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer claims "wreckers" are behind the anti-semitic wave and that evidence has been turned up to disprove the charges of a concerted anti-semitic campaign.

OTTAWA REPORT

Cabinet Has Novel Feature

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

While there has been a great deal of speculation that Prime Minister John Diefenbaker would announce an extensive reshuffle in his Cabinet, there has been an astonishing omission to draw attention to a novel feature of the present ministry.

It is almost entirely appointed from among long-time members of the House of Commons. This is in stark contrast to the former Liberal administration. At the time of its defeat in June, 1957, Mr. St. Laurent's Cabinet contained no less than nine ministers, or more than one-third of the whole, who had been recruited from outside Parliament directly into the Cabinet.

THE TORY OLD GUARD

Mr. Diefenbaker has done this in only one case: the late Dr. Sidney Smith was invited to leave his post as president of the University of Toronto to become our Secretary of State for External Affairs—or, more simply, our Foreign Minister.

Saskatchewan's Alvin Hamilton, now Minister of Northern Affairs, and Quebec's Paul Comtois, now Minister of Mines, are the only present Ministers who sat in Cabinet Council before they sat in the House of Commons. Both were elected to Parliament for the first time in 1957 at the general election; both were included in the first cabinet formed by Mr. Diefenbaker after that election.

Subsequent appointments to the Cabinet have added Quebec's Raymond O'Hurley and Ontario's David Walker, both of whom were first elected in 1957, and Quebec's Pierre Sevigny, who was elected to Parliament for the first time in 1958. A third sat in the House of Commons, and all three were appointed by Mr. Diefenbaker to minor posts, before being sworn into the Privy Council.

Hon. Sidney Smith, who died last Spring, remains the only case where Prime Minister Diefenbaker recruited someone directly from outside Parliament to fill a post in his Cabinet.

Of the 41 present Conservative M.P.s who had sat in the House of Commons before the Conservative victory in 1957, no less than 19 have been appointed to the Cabinet. Of the 167 Conservative M.P.s who won their way in Parliament in June, 1957, or subsequently, five have been appointed to the Cabinet.

When the Liberal government was defeated in 1957, it included even the Prime Minister, Mr. St. Laurent, who had been picked from private life to enter the cabinet directly. It contained Jimmy Gardiner and Stuart Garson who had been recruited from provincial memberships; Milton Gregg who had been summoned from the presidency of the University of New Brunswick; Mr. George Marler, who came from Quebec's provincial Liberal leadership; and Mr. Chevrier, who resigned the chairmanship of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority to re-enter the Cabinet. It also contained Mr. C. D. Howe, who was said to have been invited to run for Parliament, and tentatively offered a Cabinet post in the anticipation of a Liberal election victory in 1955. Finally, it also included "Mike" Pearson and Jack Pickersgill, who had been recruited directly from the Civil Service into the Cabinet.

In addition, it was said that John Baldwin, now Deputy Minister of Transport, and Arnold Heeney, now Ambassador to U.S.A., were both eyed by Mr. St. Laurent as future Cabinet members.

With the whole of Canada virtually susceptible to draft, as well as the fact that the new M.P.s, it is probable that the first significant reshaping of the Diefenbaker Cabinet will consist of a vigorous stiffening, by replacing many members of the pre-1957 Tory acorn from which the present Parliamentary Tory oak tree has grown.

REPORT FROM THE UK

Hotel Casinos Would Be Opposed

By M. McINTYRE HOOD

Special London (Eng.) Correspondent

For The Daily Courier

LONDON—Holiday resort owners who are looking hopefully to the new betting and gambling laws to enable them to establish casinos for gambling, are not likely to have a lot to cheer about.

Mr. Snapper is quite frank about his plans. He says: "I have given this a lot of thought and the outline of my plans is now complete. If a casino becomes possible when the new bill is passed, I shall be ready to open for business on the day when it becomes law. It will be a perfect opportunity to put the island back where it was in the early days of the century, when it was one of London's more expensive playgrounds."

The residents are by no means in agreement with him. One of them, Frank Alan-Hill, says: "It is bad enough as it is. I don't want to put up with the noise from the dances. With all the unacceptable people that gambling would attract, it would mean the end of the hopes that the island could ever again be a peaceful and desirable place to live."

Mrs. Lillian Jones, who has lived on the island for four years, says: "This is a horrible prospect. I would mean I could not move quickly enough."

And Mr. Snapper comes back with the retort: "Some of the islanders would probably turn out to be among the most frequent patrons of the casino when it is opened."

The Eel Pie Island objections are not the only ones being heard. Down Eastbourne on the south coast, there are many citizens who are expressing horror at the idea of having a gambling establishment as one of the attractions on the sea front.

It was reported recently that an island in the River Thames, known as Eel Pie Island, where King Henry VIII, according to legend, held pie eating contests, might become the site of a gambling casino not far from London. If the new law permits such establishments, but this will not happen if the 60 residents of the island, in the Thames at Twickenham, have anything to say about it. Learning of plans to use a dance hall at the island's only hotel as a casino, their reaction has been—

"We will fight it all the way!" The man with the casino plan is Michael Snapper, who built the first bridge to connect the island with the mainland when he bought the hotel five years ago. Mr. Snapper is quite frank about his plans. He says: "I have given this a lot of thought and the outline of my plans is now complete. If a casino becomes possible when the new bill is passed, I shall be ready to open for business on the day when it becomes law. It will be a perfect opportunity to put the island back where it was in the early days of the century, when it was one of London's more expensive playgrounds."

The residents are by no means in agreement with him. One of them, Frank Alan-Hill, says: "It is bad enough as it is. I don't want to put up with the noise from the dances. With all the unacceptable people that gambling would attract, it would mean the end of the hopes that the island could ever again be a peaceful and desirable place to live."

Mrs. Lillian Jones, who has lived on the island for four years, says: "This is a horrible prospect. I would mean I could not move quickly enough."

And Mr. Snapper comes back with the retort: "Some of the islanders would probably turn out to be among the most frequent patrons of the casino when it is opened."

The Eel Pie Island objections are not the only ones being heard. Down Eastbourne on the south coast, there are many citizens who are expressing horror at the idea of having a gambling establishment as one of the attractions on the sea front.

It was reported recently that an island in the River Thames, known as Eel Pie Island, where King Henry VIII, according to legend, held pie eating contests, might become the site of a gambling casino not far from London. If the new law permits such establishments, but this will not happen if the 60 residents of the island, in the Thames at Twickenham, have anything to say about it. Learning of plans to use a dance hall at the island's only hotel as a casino, their reaction has been—bought the hotel five years ago. Mr. Snapper is quite frank about his plans. He says: "I have given this a lot of thought and the outline of my plans is now complete. If a casino becomes possible when the new bill is passed, I shall be ready to open for business on the day when it becomes law. It will be a perfect opportunity to put the island back where it was in the early days of the century, when it was one of London's more expensive playgrounds."

"We will fight it all the way!" The man with the casino plan is Michael Snapper, who built the first bridge to connect the island with the mainland when he

Old Year Rites For Radies-Sackmann

The bride's nephew, Rev. L. E. Sackmann, officiated at the wedding of Olivia Sylvia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sackmann, to Hugo Radies son of Mr. E. Radies and the late Mrs. Radies of Eaton, Sask.

The wedding took place at the Seventh-day Adventist Church at 3 p.m. on December 30, 1959.

The bride was given away by her father. She wore a gown of Chantilly lace and illusion net, with a fitted jewel-trimmed bodice and a Sabrina neckline. The skirt featured beautiful panels of lace and was posed gracefully over a ruffled underskirt. Her lace-trimmed chapel-length veil was held in place by a dainty jewelled tiara. She carried a bouquet of white orchids surrounded by pink sweetheart roses.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Harry Stotz as matron of honor, sister of the bride, and Miss Doreen Gill, bridesmaid, who is the bride's niece. The former wore a blue nylon net and lace waltz-length dress and bolero to match, and carried a bouquet of pink 'mums. Miss Gill had a similar outfit in pink and carried a bouquet of blue 'mums.

Groomsmen were Henry Stotz and Donald Moser, with Eric Jabs and Sam Sackmann as ushers.

During the ceremony Mrs. Alice Sackmann was the soloist, and Miss Delores Bohn was the competent organist.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the lounge at the Aquatic for about 60 guests. Mrs. Sackmann, bride's mother, chose a teal two-piece dress and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride's table looked charming with a white lace cloth and tall white tapers, centred with the three-tiered wedding cake, which was topped with a miniature bride and groom, and surrounded with pink tulle and rosebuds.

Before leaving by car for the U.S.A. the bride changed into a knitted wool suit with white accessories, and a white orchid corsage.

Ontario Girl's Plea For Junior French

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (CP)—high school graduate has spent on French, yet his conversation was surprisingly good.

The reason, she said, was that his English education had emphasized conversation rather than grammar.

Colleen Kelly, a Grade 13 student at St. Patrick's Collegiate, outlined her arguments on the question in a recent newspaper article.

"French shouldn't be just another subject, but an asset for life," she said.

Miss Kelly recalled making a trip to Eastern Canada with her family two summers ago during which she met many French-speaking people.

LACKED CONFIDENCE
"Although I had Grade 10 French, I had little confidence in my 'new language,'" she said. "It was then I realized for the first time the need of good grounding in conversation and vocabulary, with less accent on grammar."

Last summer Miss Kelly was hostess to a Junior Red Cross delegate from Monaco, where French is the national language. The visitor spoke only English during his week at Fort William.

"He had studied English for only three years — two hours a week," she said. "This is less time than the average Canadian spends in French."

(Courier Sports Editor)

Vernon Canadians are riding a comfortable spot in the leadership race of the Okanagan Senior Hockey League.

They got there by way of some brilliant team work and plenty of drive.

However after their close victory over Kelowna Packers last Saturday night one big question stands out like a sore thumb. Can they keep it up?

It's reasonable enough to say that Vernon undoubtedly has a good working team this season but will they be able to hold the pace.

If we were to take that last game as judgment of Vernon's future then our question is readily answered which means they probably will remain on top, at least until the Packers are up to par.

The only other worry Vernon could possibly have is of Kamloops who is tied with the Packers. The lowly Penticton V's are not yet able to enter the picture.

Judging from past play the Packers could squeeze the Chiefs out and would have very little trouble with Penticton but how will they stack up with Vernon in the future.

Now that Orv Lavell and Mike Durban are back in Packer uniforms things could change for the good. At least Saturday night's game indicated that much.

Even more improvement will be shown when Bill (Bugs) Jones returns within the next week.

Now if one certain "old pro" would take his skates out of moth-balls—they've only been there a short while—and assist his old teammates in gaining back some of the prestige they once had, the Packers hockey club would give Vernon a hard time.

The player referred to could make a big difference in the future, this season, of the Kelowna Packers.

This writer has never seen the stalwart in action or even met him but enough has been said of his outstanding performances in the past to convince a blind man.

Anyway he'll be welcomed with open arms, both by his team and fans, should he decide to make a comeback.

Actually the Kelowna Packers are stacking up very well to Vernon.

A weighing of the facts shows that quite clearly.

The Canadians still have a majority of their last year's players. They only lost three—Hal Gordon, Jim Moro and Frank King, all fine senior A stuff. Whereas the Packers lost seven—Gerry Goyer, Harry Smith, Wayne North, Bobby Bergeron, Clare Wakshinski, Moe Young and Dave Gatherum.

This made a drastic change to the Packers' ability while proof this season shows it had trivial effect on Vernon.

Yet on top of this big setback the Orchard City boys managed to keep within six points of Vernon by the end of the first half of the schedule and so far in the second half they're just five points back.

At this point we could dig into last year's standings for these two teams and see how they stood in league play but rather than cause any embarrassment to our northern friends we'll leave it out.

Only reason we gave it any mention at all here is because some people may have poor memories.

Now that we've tossed the situation around a little, the only thing we can do it wait and see what the outcome is, particularly now that Kelowna is beginning to look sharper.

It could all turn out to be a very interesting league and if the "Pro" comes back one of these teams—namely the Canucks—had better be on their toes.

LOOKING AT THE HARDEST working side of the Packers we turn to coach Jack O'Reilly.

They say it is bad ethics to talk about your fellow newspapermen and it is, but when one of them is not properly geared up on certain things then it's time to step in and lend a helping hand.

This little yarn, written Monday by a sports editor in our neighboring city to the south was prompted for one reason only—jealousy.

The column deals with Packer Coach Jack O'Reilly who stated last week that if asked he would accept the job as coach of the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in their forthcoming Olympics game.

The columnist's envious attitude shows up prominently at the start of the story when he suggests that the "most logical contender was Grant Warwick" and not Jack O'Reilly.

He's even hotter because another sports Ed beat him to the punch by notifying Canadian Press news agency.

He tells of how Coach O'Reilly was so able to carry the burden of the Kelowna Packers through the league successfully and how he came to within striking distance of the Allan Cup. But he stops talking nice about Mr. O'Reilly when he states (to put it in a nutshell) that Jack was unable to carry them right on through.

He has attached the blame on O'Reilly by saying he wasn't adept in strategy when his players looked to him for it. That is at the time of crisis, both during the Allan Cup series and the league playoffs.

What's so shocking about it all is that Mr. Columnist is very talented, in being able to track the blame of those two losses to O'Reilly.

He'd have to be extremely gifted to figure out that it was the fault of the coach especially when the coach himself, who by the way has about 15 years hockey under his belt, is probably still working hard on strategy.

The writer suggested that the coach of the Kitchener team should be Grant Warwick or George Agar but not O'Reilly—even after he devoted three-quarters of that same column to praising him.

One big factor he left out in lauding O'Reilly is that it was this same "so-called faulty coach" that so successfully led the Packers on their tour of Sweden and the Soviet Union.

It is the consensus of myself that the column was used as a space filler.

The moral of it all is—talk not of what you know nothing.

Cougars Stay One Point Back Of 2nd-Spot Totems

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Seattle Totems and Victoria Cougars continued their ding-dong battle for second place in the Western Hockey League using almost identical scripts to score Wednesday night victories.

Seattle, on its last swing through the Prairies, cut down Calgary Stampede 5-3 at Calgary while Cougars dumped visiting Spokane Comets 6-3 at Victoria.

The result left Seattle 10 points back of first-place Vancouver with the peppy Cougars another point back. Edmonton, idle Wednesday, holds down fourth spot three points behind Cougars.

The league is idle until Friday when the last-place Comets travel to Vancouver, Seattle continues on to Winnipeg to meet the sixth-place Warriors and Edmonton tangles with the fifth-place Stampede at Edmonton.

Seattle blew a 3-1 first period lead at Calgary but came back with two unanswered goals in the final period to gain the nod over Stampede.

Individual scoring leader Guyle Fielder led Totems with two goals and two assists while Jim Powers, Marc Bollens and defenceman Gord Sinclair added one each.

The Stampeder scoring was shared by Doug Barkley. In the first, and Lou Jankowski and Jackie McLeod in the second.

At Victoria, 3,700 fans, including 1,500 children who were admitted free, saw Gordie Haworth, Doug Anderson and Gordie Fishway score two goals each for Cougars with Les Lilley, Ching Johnson and Al Johnson each replying with one for Comets.

Cougars held a 2-0 lead at the end of the first period, but almost blew it in the second when Comets outscored them 3-2. Cougars came back to clinch the game in the last period with two unanswered tallies.

Both Ching and Al Johnson, not related, scored their 20th goals of the season for Comets.

Trail Gains Easy Win Over Hapless Rossland

Trail (CP) — Captain Caling and his three-goal performance with two goals in 4 seconds late in the period.

Hockey sparked Trail Smoke Eaters to an easy 8-2 Western International Hockey League victory over hapless Rossland Warriors here Wednesday night before more than 600 fans.

Hockley fired three goals with other Trail markers coming from the sticks of Ad Tambellini, with two, Alex Reid, Don Fletcher and Ernie Secco, one each.

Primo Secco and Pinoko McIntyre scored for Rossland.

The result moved Smoke Eaters further in front of the three-team league. Trail now has 33 points, Nelson Maple Leafs 26 and Rossland 17.

Trail led 5-2 after the first period, the second was scoreless, with Smoke Eaters adding three unanswered tallies in the last stanza.

QUICK START

Tambellini boomed Trail into a quick 1-0 lead at 1:46 of the initial period, lifting Laurie Bur-saw's goalmouth pass over the outstretched leg of Bruno Forlin in the Rossland net.

Reid batted in a rebound three minutes later to increase the margin to 2-0.

Primo Secco cut the margin in half on a Rossland power play with Trail defenceman Harry Smith serving a penalty. But Tambellini got that one back at the mid-way mark of the period to give Trail a 3-1 margin.

McIntyre and Hal Jones combined to pull Rossland within a single goal minutes later with McIntyre slapping a slap shot into the net from close in to cap the two-man effort.

Hockley and Fletcher combined to give Trail a 4-2 lead at 17:47. Fletcher faked a shot and sent a pass to Hockley in front of the net. Forlin had no chance on Hockley's backhand drive.

Fletcher scored the final goal of the period with less than a minute remaining, converting a pass from Bobby Kromm.

Ernie Secco boosted Trail's lead to 6-2 at 11:54 of the final frame when he knocked down a high pass at the side of the Rossland net and slipped the puck by Forlin.

The parade is scheduled to start 7:30 p.m. at the Safeway store and will proceed to the foot of Bernard Avenue. From there they will move to the Kelowna Memorial Arena where they will give a full performance.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A group of Japanese hockey players are proving the biggest box office attraction to hit the B.C. hockey circuit in many a moon.

And if their narrow 10-9 loss to an all-star squad from the intermediate Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey League is any indication, they may soon become a success on the ice lanes as well.

The small but fast-skating team that will represent Japan at the Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif., next month roared from a 7-1 deficit to almost upset the favored All-Stars.

It was the touring team's second loss in as many starts of their 16-game pre-Olympic tour of Canada and the United States. Monday they went down 9-1 to Victoria Navy, another intermediate team.

SECOND SELL-OUT

But despite expected deficiencies on the ice, the Japanese attracted their second straight standing room crowd. More than 3,100 fans crammed the 2,600-seat Kerrisdale Arena here to witness the game.

In Victoria 5,600 fans jammed the 5,000-seat Memorial Arena to get a look at the Japanese representatives.

In both games their was little doubt the tourists had the fans' support.

Against the all-stars here the Japanese showed noticeable improvement as the game progressed. Four of their nine goals came in the last period and they just missed a fifth which would have tied the contest.

The tourists were obviously the better-conditioned team and the pace they set gradually wore down the heavier and more rugged Canadians.

Tonight the Japanese play their third game of the tour against Nanaimo of the PCAHL and another sell-out crowd is expected.

Following this they will finish the B.C. tour with games at Chilliwack, Powell River and Kamloops.

The All-Stars rolled to a 6-1 first-period lead Wednesday night and increased the margin to 7-3 early in the second. It was 10-3 at the end of 40 minutes.

Toshihiko Yamada, a 121-pound rightwinger, sparked the Japanese attack with three goals. Shinnichi Homma added two with singletons coming from Isao Ono, Masami Tanabu, Mamoru Takashima and Masao Murano.

Pete Eades with three, Bob Dumont and Joe Zuback with two each and Bill Coroluc, Dino Maniogo and Bruno Furian with one each handled the All-Star scoring.

Golfers Pass Proposal For Bigger Course

A $25,000 proposal to purchase property for an 18-hole golf course was passed last night by members of the Kelowna Golf and Country Club.

Also at the meeting, attended by about 150 members, the following were elected to the executive for the 1960 season: Tom Tomlyer, Don Day, Moe Young, Bruce Smith, Ernie Butler, Eric Loken, Dave Vivian and Ray Dolman.

The executive is expected to call a meeting in about 10 days to choose a board.

The $25,000 proposal will extend the present 9-hole course.

DUTCHMEN WIN KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, Canada's Olympic hockey team, edged league-leading Whitty Dunlops 4-3 Wednesday night for their fifth straight victory in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

Rickey Plans Player Pool For Embryo Baseball Loop

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Branch Rickey is gambling on another revolutionary baseball move — a common player pool aimed at equalizing team strengths—to put the new Continental League in business.

It would mean virtual rejection of individual team farm systems that Rickey pioneered when he ran St. Louis Cardinals.

LEAFS TRIM WINGS

Veteran, Rookie Pace Hawks To Sole Possession Of 4th

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The experience of a 15-year veteran, combined with the accuracy of a 24-year-old rookie, have given Chicago Black Hawks sole possession of fourth place in the National Hockey League.

Ted Lindsay, playing his 968th regular-season NHL game, took over Bobby Hull's left wing position on Chicago's big line Wednesday night and set up Billy Hay for the winning goal as Hawks edged the Rangers 2-1 at New York.

Hull and the Rangers' Lou Fontinato were banished from the game as the first period ended after a stick-swinging duel broke out between them. Both received match penalties, which carry automatic $100 fines and could result in further punishment.

MAHOVLICH STARS

Big Frank Mahovlich, a disappointment earlier in the season, scored two goals and set up the other as Toronto Maple Leafs took over second place with a 3-1 victory over Detroit Red Wings at Toronto.

The night's results left Leafs two points ahead of Wings, who with 42 points hold a 10-point lead over the Hawks. Boston Bruins are fifth, one point behind Chicago, and the Rangers, with 26 points, are last. Montreal Canadiens lead the league with 53 points.

Hay, brought up from Hawks' Western League Calgary farm team at the start of the season, took Lindsay's pass, sped down left wing and beat Ranger netminder Lorne Worsley at 19:31 of the second period.

It was the 18-year-old, Sask. native's eighth goal, which together with 18 assists gives him 26 points, tops among the league's rookies.

Camille Henry gave Rangers a 1-0 lead at the 4:50 mark of the first period but Ken Wharran tipped Ted Sargent's shot past Worsley at 15:13 to tie the score while Rangers were a man short.

SLASHING DUEL

As the period ended, Hull and Fontinato started slashing at each other with their sticks. It took the officials and members of both teams more than a minute to pry them apart.

Referee Vern Buefy assessed match penalties and phoned a post-game report to league president Clarence Campbell in Montreal. Campbell said he would get a formal report from game officials in New York Saturday and they will decide "whether any further action need be taken."

He could slap additional fines or suspensions, or both, on the players.

The penalty to Hull cost him a chance to widen his league-leading points total. He has 24 goals and 25 assists for 49 points, two more than Boston's Bronco Horvath.

At Toronto, Mahovlich scored his 11th and 12th goals of the season and set up defenceman Allan Stanley after Gordie Howe had given Wings a 1-0 lead in the first period.

STILL BRILLIANT

Howe, on a brilliant play, outfoxed two Leafs behind the Toronto net before skating around in front and firing a short shot into the open goal after faking netminder Johnny Bower aside.

Mahovlich tied the score on a similar play midway through the second period while Detroit defenceman Marcel Pronovost was in the penalty box.

Stanley took Mahovlich's pass from beside the Detroit net and beat Wing netminder Terry Sawchuk with a sizzling 20-foot shot at 6:19 of the third period. Mahovlich closed the scoring three minutes later when he boomed a 20-footer past Sawchuk.

Eleven More To Be Named For Olympic Ski Training

ROSSLAND, B.C. (CP)—Prospective members of Canada's Olympic alpine teams today took a rest from their rugged trials before launching into the final phase of a six-week training session.

Four women and seven men will be named next Monday to participate in further training at Squaw Valley, Calif., where the Winter Olympics will be held Feb. 18-28.

Training here will resume Friday with downhill competitions. On Saturday and Sunday, 66-gate

Finland Will Not Be Competing At Squaw Valley

HELSINKI, Finland (Reuters) Finland has decided not to compete in the hockey tournament of the Winter Olympic Games next month at Squaw Valley, Calif.

Finland's Olympic Games committee announced today that the hockey team was not strong enough to compete in the Games and that the costs of sending it to California would have been prohibitive.

Khrushchev Issues Scolding On Failures In Agriculture

LONDON (Reuters) — Moscow radio has disclosed Premier Khrushchev has scolded the leaders of the second largest Soviet republic for "bad organization" of agriculture.

The radio quoted Khrushchev's address Christmas Day to the central committee of the Soviet Communist party, attended by leaders of Kazakhstan.

Kazakhstan Premier Umayev and party chief Nikolai Belyayev spoke earlier in the meeting but Khrushchev was not satisfied. He said they "did not have the courage to speak about shortcomings in a party-like manner" so he

The premier declared: "Friendship is one thing and good service another. People say: 'You are my brother. But truth is my mother.'"

"If we here do not tell you the truth, you will of course not be told it in Kazakhstan. You will be applauded there."

"In actual fact however, things are bad, very bad indeed."

Canada Playing Vital Role Developing ICBM Defence

OTTAWA (CP)—The vital part Canada is playing in development of a defence against the intercontinental missile is gradually coming to light.

Some authorities feel, in fact, that Canada should scrap its plan to install the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile—no money has yet been committed except for preparation of two launching sites—and devote its air defence effort to helping provide a defence against the long-range rocket.

Much of the counter-missile research in this country is secret but enough information now is being made available by various sources to make it clear that Canada is in on the ground floor in some important aspects of counter-missile development.

This means the United States Army may sub-contract to Canadian firms some components for its Nike-Zeus counter-missile system.

Dr. Herbert York, chief of research, U.S. defence department, said during a recent Ottawa visit that Nike-Zeus is the only feasible means now in sight of destroying intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau, the U.S. Army's chief of research and development, has said he hopes Nike-Zeus will go into production soon to provide a defence against the missile in the early 1960s.

Some scientists here say privately that the Bomarc will arrive on the scene too late in Canada—late 1961 at the earliest—to be of any real use and that the main threat to North America by then will be the intercontinental rocket.

The U.S. Army has spent $300,000 already on Nike-Zeus and has earmarked $300,000,000 more this year for development of this system.

It is spending more than $1,000,000 a year in Canada on programs associated with missile defence. Nearly all this work is being done at the Canadian armament research and development establishment at Valcartier, Que., a branch of the defence Research Board.

DETECTION RESEARCH

The U.S. is chiefly interested in Canadian research into detection and tracking of long-range missiles and discrimination between the actual warhead and decoys.

At Valcartier, Canadian scientists are simulating outer space in huge vacuum tubes and determining what happens to objects travelling through space at hypervelocities.

In this field, the Valcartier facilities are unequalled anywhere in the world, Canadian and American authorities say.

Clint Walker Won't Tow Hollywood's Line

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In these times of wavering consciences, it's refreshing to meet a man who doesn't waver.

Such a man is steel-jawed Clint Walker, the actor who refuses to conform to Hollywood's way of life. For instance, Warner Brothers is beating the drums for a two-part drama, Gold, Glory and Custer, which starts on the Cheyenne series tonight.

Clint couldn't care less. He has no kind words for Cheyenne, two-part or otherwise.

"I hate anything that is static," the actor resumed. "I believe we were put on this earth not merely by accident. We're here for a purpose, and that purpose is to progress as human beings.

"I want to grow as an actor, but I can't do it in Cheyenne. I get some good scenes to play, but there isn't time enough to develop them as they should be. We have to stage the fights in the same old way because we aren't allowed to experiment. We've got to keep on schedule.

"That's why I want to get out of the series and into feature pictures."

Clint had one feature earlier this year—Yellowstone Kelly. He admitted that it wasn't a world-beater, but "it's making a lot of money for the studio."

Cracks Appear In Loan Paintings

WINNIPEG (CP)—Cracks have appeared in several valuable paintings loaned to the Winnipeg art gallery by Lord Gort of Garry, Ireland.

The gallery has 16 paintings of the 15th and 16th century done on wood panels. Dr. Ferdinand Eckhardt, gallery director, said the paintings are deteriorating because of a humidifying system.

Four have been withdrawn from exhibition. Dr. Eckhardt said he is writing Lord Gort to explain the circumstances. All the paintings can be restored, he said. Two of the manels are split the entire length.

The group of paintings features German and Flemish artists, including several by the German master, Cranach.

Dr. Eckhardt said the dry atmospheric condition of the gallery is causing the trouble.

Contract Awarded For RCMP Building

OTTAWA (CP)—A contract has been awarded a Vancouver company for construction of a new RCMP building in Kamloops, B.C., the works department announced here.

Successful bidder at $433,289 was Marpole Construction Company. The brick building is to consist of a two-storey administration wing measuring 98 by 86 feet, and a one-storey garage wing 178 feet long and 50 feet wide.

Burmese Election May Be Example — If It Works

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—After 15 months of power, Gen. Ne Win is turning Burma back to the politicians for a new try at elected civilian government.

In what may be Southeast Asia's most important election of 1960, Burmese voters Feb. 6 will choose a government for their neutralist country that shares a 1,000-mile border with Red China.

The election is significant because it is being held in an area where some troubled countries have been turning from parliamentary democracy to military rule.

It could serve as an example if it works.

NUMEROUS RISKS

There are many risks involved. The main candidates still are the bitterly feuding politicians of the anti-fascist People's Freedom League, the catch-all common front that split last year after governing Burma since it gained independence from Britain in 1948.

Former Prime Minister U Nu, craft and popular with the public as Burma's leading figure since independence, heads the so-called "clean" league faction.

His one-time deputy U Ba Swa, a more right-wing organization man, leads what is termed the "stable" section of the league. The far left — wingers of the national united front are not considered a threat.

HOT CAMPAIGN EXPECTED

Everybody predicts a heated, possibly bitter, campaign. Both sides accuse the other of considering violence.

Burma, a mountain-rimmed rice bowl of 18,000,000 people to the south of Red China, has undergone some important changes since last year's crisis that ended with Ne Win taking over as Prime Minister in a sort of legalized coup d'etat.

Rangoon's once garbage-strewn sidewalks are cleaner, if still not always repaired.

Bandits and Communist insurgents no longer prowl much of the countryside, blasting trains and robbing villagers.

Costly corruption in government has been reduced, political opponents fired from some jobs.

And a start made at tackling Burma's economic problems.

Nu's personal popularity plus resentment against the army and his pledge to make Buddhism the state religion are all considered potent weapons.

They are believed the main factors behind impressive victories by the "clean" faction in recent city elections around Burma. The "stables" won in only six of 28 cities.

U NU HOPEFUL

U Nu, 55, sees this a possible sign of things to come in the voting for the 250 Parliament seats.

"Stable" leader Ba Swa, a 44-year-old socialist with less popular appeal but a mind for planning and organization, says the city vote is not the controlling factor in Burma.

Body Fights Against TB In Dramatic Way

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Many people seem to be writing articles and books about battles these days. They discuss battles fought during the Civil War, World Wars I and II, Korea, and a host of other conflicts. I'd like to discuss a battle today, a vital engagement fought with all the drama of any of the others—one that may be going on inside of many of you at this very moment.

NOT LICKED

Popular opinion to the contrary, tuberculosis is not as yet a licked disease.

Some 250,000 Americans have active TB right now. An additional 550,000 have the disease in an inactive form and should be under medical supervision. And—get this—more than 50-million citizens of this country have TB germs walked up with in their bodies, just waiting to burst out and sweep through the lungs or other parts of the body like an invading army, if given the chance.

INVADE BODY

Here's what happens when TB germs invade the body:

Usually, they choose the lungs, a favorite spot for such an attack. They enter the body through the mouth, since they are spread from one person to another by sneezing, coughing, even by kissing.

The body rallies its defense army, the white cells, in an effort to defeat the invading hordes. In accordance with good military tactics, these white cells surround whem them.

At the same time the body enough to whip your army of also tries to surround the invading germs with a wall of fibers and cells. This attempt to wall off the germs creates a tiny lump which we call a tubercle.

Now if the body is in good general health, its defenses usually are strong enough to beat the invading germs and wall them off, against a second attack. Just as a human army usually is better the second time they attack.

In every respect, it is real warfare. In preparation against just a person and, if they do, can be mobilized more quickly to repel the invaders again. In preparation against such an attack, your body will already be manufacturing special antibodies to fight off the germs. On the other hand, human tissues and are required throughout life. A balanced diet contains all necessary minerals.

Australia's Shark Menace Not Great — Statistically

SYDNEY (CP)—The sense of horror shared by most Australians when a shark takes or mauls a man in beach waters is short-lived.

Within hours—sometimes minutes—of a warning or a tragedy, the victims are forgotten and surfboard riders are back in the water that could have been tinged with human blood.

They may be working on the theory that, statistically, the risk is not great or on the philosophy that "it couldn't happen to me."

Months of greatest shark risk in Australia are January and February.

Not all bathers who scamper in passing panic from shallow water following a siren warning or an unofficial scare go back into the water. The majority call it a day and for a time there is closer heed to appeals to swimmers to remain within flagged boundaries denoting mesh protection from the man-eaters.

There are differing schools of attitude towards the shark danger in Australia.

Only a few weeks ago responsible spokesmen were saying risks from sharks on New South Wales beaches were far less than those involved in crossing a busy city street.

T. C. Roughley, former superintendent of fisheries, said the shark menace is "usually exaggerated." In the last 30 years, he said, there have been an average of only three shark attacks a year on Australian ocean and harbor beaches. Far more deaths occurred each year from snake bites than from shark attacks.

K. Watson, Australian Life Saving Association secretary, said that the chances of being taken by a shark at an ocean beach were "hundreds of times less than of being hit by a car."

"The danger should not be forgotten, of course, and there's bound to be a few sharks about in the surfing season but there's no need to be afraid of sharks every time you go into the water."

From time to time advice is given how to keep out or get out of trouble with sharks. It has included getting down to the shark's level and blowing bubbles at it under water or releasing a repellent made of copper acetate and nigrosine black dye.

Opening lead—king of diamonds.

It is a fundamental principle of dummy play that if you see a contract can be made only if the adverse cards are divided in a certain way, you go ahead and play on that basis.

For a dramatic illustration of the application of this principle we present the accompanying hand, where declarer was able to make a slam even though East had what appeared to be two unassailable trump tricks.

West led a diamond and declarer ruffed it, there being no hurry about taking a discard on the ace. When he then led a heart to the king, West showed out and the bad trump distribution became known.

The only possible hope of making the hand was to arrange for a trump endplay. This could happen only if East's distribution were such as to permit the endplay position to be reached.

South had to assume that East would follow to the three high spades and two high clubs as they were cashed, and likewise had to assume that East had exactly four diamonds. No distribution other than 3-4-4-2 held by East would permit the slam to be made.

So declarer went ahead on this assumption. He cashed the ace of diamonds, discarding a club, and ruffed a diamond. He then played the A-K and another spade and ruffed another diamond. The king and ace of clubs were next cashed, putting the lead in dummy, and bringing about this position:

North		East
♠ A8		♠ 9
♥ 9		♥ QJ6
♦ 109		♦ 10
♣ 10		♣ 10

Dummy led the nine of diamonds and East had it! If he trumped with the six, declarer would overruff to make 12 tricks.

And if East trumped with the jack, he would be forced to return a heart from the Q-6. There was no escape.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

This day augurs well for literary, promotional and clerical matters. It is also a favorable day in which to put accounts in order, to catch up on neglected correspondence.

Important decisions may be made regarding travel, change of living environment or business associations, but they should not be made without careful study and analysis. The time this takes may seem to slow your progress, but it will be worthwhile in the end. Do nothing on impulse.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, you may anticipate a year of change, new business and romantic ventures and, quite possibly, a change of environment. It would be well to remember, however, that in any transaction of major importance, changes should not be made without cautious consideration. Do nothing under compulsion or duress. Let your keen mind, rather than your emotions, be your guide.

Domestic situations should be especially harmonious this year, and financial plans, carefully considered, should reach successful culmination before year's end.

A child born on this day has excellent prospect for a successful life if he can curb tendencies toward lethargy, and capitalize on his innate practicality and gift of logic.

NOT FOR FOLK SONGS

Rawhide Says Payola Hasn't Come His Way

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's sittin' here with my feet up on top disc jockey in the field of folk music says he's never been offered payola. Max (Rawhide) Ferguson says "payola just isn't a paying proposition for folk-song record companies." And he isn't interested in the other kind.

But Max, impersonator of Rawhide and a score of other characters, has received many strange gifts from listeners during the 12 years he has been with the CBC in Toronto and the Maritimes. He now is in Toronto playing records and doing his usual pot-pourri of weird characterizations and satire, as well as working on CBC television's Tabloid. He says most of his gifts have come from "Marumtiders."

When he was in Halifax, Rawhide often received knitted items from Newfoundlanders. One woman sent him a pair of heavy fisherman's socks, "to be worn over the shoes, to save the soles." Another listener made him a bulky toque, to wear when he was playing for the CBC Halifax hockey team.

Max said the gifts weren't always spontaneous, but often came in after obvious hints. "It came in very handy in my bachelor days," he said. "I would go on the air and say, 'Well, I'm

Remember Harold? He was a spider, one of the more off-beat characters played by Rawhide, who got sick one time, and had to go to hospital. Fourteen kind ladies promptly knitted tiny spider suits and sent them in. During the last few years Max has received about 50 different caricatures of Rawhide from imaginative artists. He has also received many tape recordings from individuals and groups interested in folk songs. Max says these aren't gifts, but a sort of "audition."

One of his fondest memories goes back to 1951. Rawhide had left Halifax for Toronto in 1949. Winter was approaching and Max had a yearning for some "Marumtides" cider. So Rawhide and "the boys" went on the Trans-Canada network and issued some broad hints.

HEARD AT ACADIA
A few days later a letter arrived from a group of students at Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S. They promised to send a jug of cider in time for Christmas. Rawhide read the letter on the air, smacked his lips, and sat back to wait. Christmas came and went, but there was no sign of the package.

Rawhide went back on the air and said somebody down east seemed to be procrastinating.

Eventually, a quart of cider arrived, and with it a note. The station agent at Wolfville had heard Rawhide reading the students' letter, and when they brought their package in to mail, had refused to accept it. They went away with the cider, and waited. Then they re-packaged it, with a large amount of false filling to change the shape of the parcel. It finally reached Rawhide, labelled as a used radio.

Credit Buying By Teen-Agers At High Level

VANCOUVER (CP) — Credit buying by teen-agers amounts to "hundreds of thousands of dollars" in Vancouver annually, the credit manager of a large department store says.

"Practically every merchant in town is doing it," he said. "We have had thousands of teen-age accounts in the last two years and not one has appeared in our bad debt column. We have had no trouble with them at all."

"Why hasn't it been advertised widely? It's a controversial subject. I don't think the average parent has reached the point where he recognizes credit buying to its fullest extent and doesn't approve."

At this particular store parents are not telephoned for their consent. At others they are. In any case it is a gamble, one merchant said, because neither the juvenile nor the parent can be held responsible for payment of such a debt.

"These youngsters have income," said the department store spokesman. "They baby-sit, do Saturday and week-end work and we treat them on individual merit. If you phoned the parents it would defeat the purpose of trying to teach youngsters how to be good credit customers."

"If a youngster's income is $20 a month he will be allowed a limited account with monthly payments of $10. Purchases are usually budgeted over a six to 10-month period."

"Usual top purchase is not over $100. But most start off with a $5 or $10 monthly payment. Some teen-age boys are buying their own cars on time and they are not doing it with $10 monthly payments."

"Teen-agers and those under 21 come armed with credit references the same as adults. About 90 per cent of the applications are accepted."
